

Accessible Documents Report

This is the first paragraph of the sample document. It exists to give the layout analysis model a block of running body text to classify, spanning several lines so it reads as a paragraph rather than a label.

A second paragraph follows after a vertical gap. It is visually distinct from the first and should be detected as a separate text element.

- tagging quality
- reading order
- alt text coverage